The New Garage

Garage to be Erected.

After some delay, Mr John H Miller has secured the sole right to the property at Main and Third street, where formerly stood the Stony Plain Garage. Work was commenced on Friday last to clear up the debris left from the fire, and the construction of a new garage is now being proceeded with.

Some slight alterations and a few improvements will be made on the old plans. The new building will have a 46 foot frontage, will be metal-clad, and will be topped with a round, metal roof.

The new edifice will afford a greater convenience to car owners, while the repair shop will be under the supervision of a skilled mechanic.

The Crop Conditions.

The two successive good showers the latter part of last week have set the crops in the district off to another good start. While the crops were not exactly languishing for want of rain, still every in the shape of wetness will be welcome always, owing to insufficient moisture in the ground at seeding time.

While it looks good at the present time for the grain crops, if the rains are frequent, some anxiety is beginning to be felt about the hay crop, as the present stand is away below normal for this time of year.

Stony Plain Town Council.

A special meeting of Stony Plain Council was held on Friday last, to consider an application from the proprietor of the Stony Plain Garage to reconstruct the building burned last March. The application was accompanied by a plan of the proposed building. Council decided that the walls of the proposed building be covered with a metal covering; that the roof be covered with metal. That the repair shop be separated from the car storage department by a fire proof wall, and that the doors between be fire-proof. The workshop will have a metal lining. Several minor matters were left with the Building Inspector and the Fire Committee to be dealt with.

A postponed meeting of Council was held Tuesday, when the principal feature of the evening was hearing grievances from members of the Cow Chasers' Union. The complainants were given an attentive hearing, and each case was dealt with in a masterly manner by the Chairman of the Pound Committee.

Each tender must be accompanied by a marked cheque payable to the undersigned for ten per cent of the amount of the tender.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

Dr Frith Dentist, will be at Royal Hotel, Stony Plain, Saturday, June 24.

The Garden Party.

Owing to the inclement weather on Friday evening last, the Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church were unable to hold their garden party as proposed. The Aid is to be congratulated upon this, another success; and it is hoped another such enjoyable evening will be held in the near future.

Bringing Rural Residents Within Closer Reach Of The Urban Dweller

Human necessity and traffic requirements should be the guiding principle in the selection and location of any system of highways, rather than adherence to an artificial system of straight lines. Hon. S. J. Latta declared in his presidential address at the annual convention of the Canadian Good Roads Association held in Victoria recently. To this end, he claimed, the following details should be considered:

The greatest good to the greatest number; most direct route possible for traffic; avoidance of sharp curves; advantage of easy grades; minimum construction cost; economy of maintenance; correlation of each road selected and located to other portions of the system; relation of the road as a feeder to railways; drainage facilities; proximity of road material; future requirements; necessity for bridges and culverts; money available for the project proposed.

The advantage of careful scientific planning could not be over-estimated. A well-planned road system would help build up manufacturing industries, cheaper cost of raw materials, reduce cost of living by bringing rural residents within closer reach of the urban dweller, help attract settlement and elevate the social life of the community. The type of road to build on any part of a settlement is that which will carry the load which will go over that road at least possible expense. Drainage was important and the greatest engineering skill should be employed in this work.

In location of a system, care must be taken to select mileage capable of being finished by taxpayers concerned, and the same principle must apply in the choice of type.

Road building was a great co-operative enterprise. Taxpayers of any given community should co-operate with each other in the interest of all. Distribution of funds depended on ability to contribute and the benefit derived from the use of the road. Provincial aid to the communities ought to be given on the same basis. It was quite evident, he said, that a basis of population could not fill all requirements for the purpose of co-operation. In like manner it might easily be shown that distribution of federal aid among provinces on a population basis might be in many respects unjust and unequitable. The human element is Canada's greatest asset and its interest must, therefore, be kept at all times in the forefront in any development scheme.

Emphasizing the magnitude of the road-building problem, the president instanced the relatively small population spread over an immense area. Upon a family of four persons—less than the average—rests the enormous responsibility of building and maintaining one mile of roadway and upon five average families, the construction and maintenance of an immense area of main highway. Before more railways are built or extended, land areas must be examined, and for those found at to serve the human element, scientifically planned road systems ought to be devised so that highways, roads and the economic value of land might be made to fit in with each other.

When Time Was Precious

Hell applied for a patent on his telephone February 14, 1876. The same day, Prof. Eliza Gray rushed into the patent office with almost identically the same device.

After years of litigation the national Supreme Court decided in favor of Bell.

Bell got to the patent office a few hours ahead of Gray. The next day cost Gray what patent attorneys call "the most valuable single patent ever granted."

Rural Schools Crowded

Raising School Age in Saskatchewan Causes Complications

As the result of the new regulations passed at the last session of the Legislature raising the compulsory school age in Saskatchewan to 16 years, many of the school houses in rural districts of the province are crowded to capacity, and a few of them have not sufficient accommodation for all the pupils affected by the new act, according to information which has reached the Department of Education.

"The department has become acquainted recently with a number of cases where inadequate accommodation will be found in the schools for the children who are to attend," A. H. Ball, Deputy Minister, is quoted as stating. "This is true of a number of rural schools especially."

Mr. Ball stated that the only way out of the difficulty will be for some of the schools to increase the size of classrooms to provide for the jump in attendance.

"In raising the age limit for compulsory education, regard must always be had to this contingency. It was found when the time came to proclaim the adolescent act of Ontario in force there were not school buildings in the province to accommodate a large number of pupils who became liable to attend school under the act, and exactly the same difficulty was found when the Fisher Act in England, came to be put in operation. So Saskatchewan is not alone in her difficulty."

It was intimated that in cases where there is not sufficient school accommodation available right enforcement of the act will not be insisted upon as far as the older pupils are concerned, until space can be provided for the classes.

Drainage Schemes in Saskatchewan

Thousands of acres will be reclaimed in Saskatchewan this season when the several drainage schemes under the Department of Highways are carried out. The work which is being undertaken in various parts of the province will cost the Provincial Government about $50,000.

Locusts Destroying Fields of Spain

Great Swarms Cover Railway Line and Stop Train

A large part of Spain, especially Andalusia, La Mancha and Aragon, has been invaded by a plague of locusts like those described in Biblical stories. Great hordes "descend on the field and devour the grass and leaves, transforming the smiling country into a desert within a few hours."

The Government has organized a defense campaign, using paraffin, on which the import duty has been reduced 50 per cent.

Near Barcelona, in the province of Jerez, a train was stopped by the locusts. Swarms had covered the rails, and on the masses of crushed insects, the wheels of the locomotive merely revolved aimlessly.

More Concerning Wrens.

YOU HAVE heard about the little bird house that Sally and her brother had built and placed up in a tree for Mr. and Mrs. Wren to nest in, and you also heard how Mr. and Mrs. Wren had quivered over a certain straw in the nest, with the result that Mr. Wren, who was setting the worst of the argument, had flown away. But he did not stay away. Oh, no. He was much too interested in that new home of his. So back he flew, very chastened in spirit and bearing in his bill a long, soft, plummy grass as a peace offering.

Near Kew, was ever so glad to see him back, though she made no remark about it, but very gently accepting the grass, she carefully wove it into the front of the nest she was so busily working on.

And her brother watched from a short distance and wished that the Wren's house were not quite so far away from the ground, for they were more curious, and they fairly longed to be able to look into the tiny front door and see what was going on.

A few days later they noticed that Mr. Wren remained most of the time in the house and that Mr. Wren always flew home carrying large flies and moths in his bill.

"That means Mrs. Wren is sitting on her eggs and doesn't dare leave them, and he is bringing her insects for food," Sally whispered to her brother. About five weeks later when the children again were loitering near the Wren's tree they had the fun of seeing seven Wren babies gullied from the nest by their anxious parents and given their first lessons in flying.

That evening the two children told their father what they had seen, and he was very interested.

"Have you ever heard the story," he asked, "of how the Wren got the best of the Eagle?"

Sally and her brother shook their heads; so he continued: "Once upon a time there was a contest among all the birds of the air to determine which could fly the highest. It seems that the highest flyer would be chosen King of Birds. Of course none of them was surprised when the Eagle seemed to be successful, as he was the largest and strongest. Just as the other birds were about to call him their King the clear, sweet song of a Wren was distinctly heard—and it was far higher than the Eagle. A little Wren had perched unnoted on the Eagle's back and been carried up into the sky until the exhausted Eagle had flown his limit, when the Wren suddenly spread his tiny wings and continued up—up—up!"

"And was he chosen King instead of the Eagle?" asked the children.

"No," replied their father, "because he had cheated, and every one has to win a contest by fair and square means only."

"Are there many different kinds of Wrens?" Sally then asked her father. "Yes, quite a few. The 'Winter Wren' is the smallest, and, oh, how he loves to bathe! He is often seen splashing in icy water in midwinter. The 'Carolina Wren' are the largest of the family. These are faithful to the same mate until parted by death. They are odd in their characteristics of burrowing into the ground and building their nests into the sides of trees and in the hollows of old trees and tall water plants, and their nests are deep, swaying, baglike pouches, very much like the Oriole's except the opening is on the side."

U. S. Scientists Claim To Have Perfected Process For Liquifying Helium

A Little Talk on Thrift

By the President of the American Society for Thrift

This is the time of the year when thousands of our young people are leaving schools and colleges to take up the practical responsibilities of life. They are looking forward with high ambition and a firm determination to make the most of the great years that lie ahead of them.

Whatever life may hold for the individual during the next fifty years, it may be accepted as a matter of certainty that life during this era will be more interesting than ever before. With the rapid progress now being made in many branches of science, one cannot, by the wildest stretch of imagination, picture what wonders will be seen and experienced by those who are alive fifty years hence.

But the fundamentals of human progress are as changeless as the sea, and those who go the furthest in life's accomplishments will do so because of their adherence to those elements of success chief among which is the practice of broad constructive thrift.

This does not mean alone economy matters, but it means in a word the elimination of all forms of waste. One of the penalties of inexperience in practical matters is one's failure to appreciate the value of little things, and thrift is essentially a conservation of the so-called unimportant things.

Those who are thrifty are systematic, efficient and progressive. They know how to stop up the little leaks. The elimination of idle moments means more work done, just as the saving of a few dollars here and there means a substantial accumulation.

Be willing to sacrifice small pleasures for the good of your career. Work systematically toward the one fixed purpose you have in mind. Do not try to arrive at the goal of your ambition too soon. Learn the value of patience.

There are no lessons which life can teach that are of more practical value than these, "Love your enemies," says the young man and young woman who are going out into the world of experience at this time may be imbued with the spirit of true thrift for which their life can never hope to reach that high place in life which is their heart's dream today.

British Always Show Kindness Even to Their Enemies

It seems, sometimes, as if Britain were constantly obeying the divine command, "Love your enemies," who answers slanders with a smile and refuses to take the onslaughts of venomous critics seriously. Only the other day we read a warm appreciation of the Freeman of New York, a relentless backbiter of Britain, from the pen of the great London editor, Sir W. Robertson Nicoll. Sir Robertson said he had been reading the Freeman, which "roasts" and ridicules Britannia in every issue, and "had found some splendid literary comments in its pages. He overlooked the trashy insults to his country, and, turning to something else, found an article or two that intrigued his intellect and touched his heart. For the sake of these, he recommended the Freeman to his friends. This is the sort of Briton that Mr. Hearst will meet in the world's metropolises. When he returns, let us hope, he will feel more than ever that throwing mud at such a friendly people is not only bad manners and poor policy, but sheer waste of time and effort.—Chicago British-American.

Alberta Potatoes Free from Disease

There will be a very large demand for Alberta grown seed potatoes for the Central and Southern States. In the near future, according to C. O. Fitch, editor of the Potato magazine published at Ames, Iowa. He points out that the Alberta product of seed potato is particularly free from disease.

Special wireless sets are being made in America for the use of cowboys while riding on their rounds.

The coldest spot in the world has been found. By comparison, the North Pole is warmer than the tropics. It is no much colder than any other spot in the universe that comparisons are almost impossible. To be exact, it is 515 degrees Fahrenheit below zero. For instance, the known temperature near the North Pole varies from 39 to 60 degrees below zero. At the highest altitude ever reached in an airplane, the temperature hovered around 60 degrees below zero.

This remarkable spot is in Washington. It is the cryogenic laboratory of the Bureau of Mines, Department of Interior, where, for more than two years, scientists have been working in an effort to liquify helium gas, purify it and make it 100 per cent. efficient in the lift of giant dirigibles.

And after numerous failures success finally is in sight. So sure are the scientists of this that they expect to be able to announce before the end of the year that what has been assumed to be impossible has been accomplished and that helium gas has been liquified and absolutely isolated from traces of any foreign gases.

When the process is perfected, it will be of inestimable value to science, particularly to the navigation of the air by the huge ships which will cross the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. It will make accidents, such as that which recently happened the airship Roma, impossible, for the gas is non-inflammable and only lacks lifting power to the extent that it has been impeded to free it of other gases.

The research work is also calculated to reduce the cost of producing helium, which to date has been so expensive and prohibitive that airships have been only partially inflated with it.

Walking and Riding

Probably No Form of Exercise Will Take the Place of Walking

The doctors who are complaining of the decline of walking are thinking no doubt of the effect upon health. Considered as an exercise for the promotion of health there is probably nothing to take the place of walking. This automobile has its uses, too, as health-giving agency. It does afford an opportunity for "taking the air," but unfortunately the air to which it brings its devotees is usually so charged with the dust of the roads that it is of questionable value from the point of view of health. But the art or exercise of walking has many claims to consideration from the point of view of pleasure. It yields a kind of pleasure to be found in no other way. The blue sky, the green fields and the open road—it is a vision to stir the blood. For the sake of out-of-doors, for those who take delight in the simple and beautiful things which nature provides so lavishly for all who are capable of enjoying them, there is no form of motion to take the place of walking.—From the Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

Good Work of G.W.V.A.

Veteran Receives Money Due Him as Result of Efforts of this Organization

S. G. Armstrong, of Lockwood, Sask., has received a cheque for $40 as a result of representations made on his behalf by the Saskatchewan Command of the Great War Veterans' Association.

He deposited money to the credit of the G.W.V.A. English Bank as he intended to take up land on his return to Canada from overseas. In July, 1921, the money was transferred to this country at his request and deposited at Lockwood. In the process of transference he suffered a loss owing to the depression in the rate of exchange between the time he asked for the transfer and when it was actually effected. In August, 1921, he brought the matter to the attention of the G.W.V.A. and after nearly nine months' correspondence, his claim had now been satisfactorily settled.

The nickname "Uncle Sam" was first used at Troy, New York, in 1812.

CAN THE DEAF BE MADE TO HEAR?

This question can be answered both ways. If the deafness is due to Catarrh, success is general. If the sufferer persists in the use of Catarrh, and thereby drives Catarrh out of the system. Penetrating through the passages of the ear, the soothing vapor of Catarrh relieves the inflammation, destroys the Seeds of Catarrh and thereby allows nature to re-assess herself. For Catarrh deafness, pain over the eyes, plugged nostrils and other symptoms associated with Catarrh, use Catarrh. You'll be more than pleased with the quick improvement in your condition. After we had been introduced to the shopkeeper, his wife—who is also postmistress—the clerk, and two farmers, and their wives, Mrs. Mills gave her order, while Mary and I listened respectfully to a heated discussion which had for its subject the various virtues and vices of the Roblin government.

"I tell you what," said one man, "the Agricultural College is the only good thing the Conservatives ever gave us—don't talk telephones to me!"

This reminded me that I had left Winnipeg without seeing the far-famed Agricultural College.

Mrs. Mills had now finished her purchasing, and after she had asked for her mail and left for the Plakes man to call for me this evening, we proceeded on our way.

"Another of them machinery duns," remarked our guide in a resigned tone of voice as she sorted out her letters. "An' three letters for Mr. Hartford—two of them look like they might be from ladies. Queer, ain't it, that he never got married, an' him such a fine-looking man!"

"I hope you will pardon me if I am rude, Mrs. Mills," said I, "but would you mind telling me what a 'machinery dun' is? I do not think that I have ever heard the phrase until now."

"A 'machinery dun,'" she began, and I knew instantly that I had blundered upon an unpleasant subject, is a written request to put up or shut up. Them darn drummers comes around in the spring an' tells the farmers a whole caboodle of machinery they could just as well do without, an' takes notes on the harvest time. Well, perhaps when fall comes the crop has

Liver Pains

Pains under the shoulder blades tell of liver derangements. Other indications are sallow complexion, indigestion, constipation, biliousness and bilious headaches.

The quickest way to arouse the liver to healthful action is by use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Continued use will insure lasting relief, correct the whole digestive system and purify the blood.

Mrs. Wm. Barten, Hanover, Ont., writes:

"For some time I suffered from liver trouble. There was a hard, lumpy, down feeling in my back which I could not get rid of. Some one advised me to try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I did so, and found them exactly what I needed. The dragging feeling in my back disappeared and I felt much benefited generally. I have great confidence in Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and always keep them on hand for general use."

been bad or you can't get cars to ship your grain, an' then the firm begins to write polite letters threatening to seize everything you've got if you don't pay up immediate. If we ever get votes for women in this country, I'll bet my bottom dollar that there'll be a law made so that men can't buy machinery without their wives' assent to it. It's a different story if a woman wants something to make her work easier!"

"I beg your pardon," I said as soon as she paused for breath. "I should not have mentioned the subject had I known that it was one on which you felt so strongly."

"Oh, it don't bother me particular," she replied, "except that I do hate to see men make such fools of themselves, an' then their wives an' kids have got to suffer for it. You'll be wondering how I happened to get a darning letter, so I'll just tell you how it comes about. I like to have somebody to talk to, but these Elba women are such awful gossips that I hate to say a word to them. Sometimes I get so full up that I feel fit to bust right out into high-stricks."

"You'd probably never guess it, but I was only married three years ago. Reginald an' Percival, ain't my children at all, though I'm just as fond of the poor kids as if they were."

"About five years ago Pa died back east, an' being as I had lived on the same forty acres all my life, I was so sick of it that I just sold my stick an' came west for a visit to my brother in Winnipeg, an' later on I came out here to see John and Arabella Plake.

Mr. Mills had a farm in these parts then, an' him being laid up with a broke collar-bone, Arabella used to go over pretty often an' red up the house for him. He was a real interesting man to talk to—English, an' they do say that he has some letters to his name—but that shuffles. I used to be so sorry for them poor motherless kids that I'd like to have cried—they were just growing up like young lions, an' when he got better an' asked me would I marry him, I said yes. The folks around here says that an Ontario old maid will marry anything that calls itself a man, but, as true as I live, it weren't to hear myself called Missis that I married Mr. Mills, but because I'm that tenderhearted I can't help but to see them handsome men trying to fend for themselves an' bring up kids."

"Well, things went fine for a while. Mr. Mills was always a perfect gentleman, I'll say that for him. But one day there came a letter from the American Implement Company saying as how they'd heard that Mr. Mills had married a woman, an' they wanted to know if he was willing to pay up his debts for machinery—enough for three farms, there was. An' if we didn't pay up at once they'd take back the goods an' foreclose the mortgage on the farm. An' that man had married me before ever we was married that he hadn't no debts to speak of, an' that he had a clear title to his farm!"

"That fixed me. I wrote back to the company an' paid for the buggy we was using, but I told them that's all I would do, an' that there wasn't nothing on the place they could seize except Mills himself, an' they could have him an' welcome. An' then me an' Mr. Mills had what you might call a heart-to-heart talk, an' the result was that one day he cleared out an' went to Winnipeg, an' I ain't seen or heard of him since. The darn foreclosed the mortgage an' of course we had to get off the farm, so I bought this here boarding-house, an' with the help of the Lord an' plenty of elbow grease I've managed to keep things going an' them two poor kids is going to have their chance."

There were tears in the good woman's eyes as she finished. I shall never laugh at her grammar again. But the mixture of tragedy and comedy philosophy and common-sense, is rather disconcerting.

"You'll both be thinking that I'm an awful talker," she said after a short pause. "But I've got one thing more to say. Miss Eliot, an' you too, Miss Arnold. If ever you have a notion of getting married to a man, just go to the Land Titles Office an' have a search made to see if his property is clear. It'll only cost you a dollar or so, an' it's worth it."

"After we had returned to the 'Palace' I wrote letters until tea-time, while Mary went in search of the twins, found them—digging fish-worms in the back garden, ugh!—and made them her willing slaves for life. Mary 'has a way with her' that makes me break the Tenth Commandment."

While we were having tea, Mr. Hartford told us that it was his custom to hold Evening every evening. This custom scandalizes the good people of Elba, who consider it a weak imitation of the formal and ceremonious of the Roman Catholic Church. (It has just occurred to me that, so far as my feminine mind can grasp the situation, the average Canadian looks upon the Roman Catholic Church as a political party rather than as a religious body.) So when tea was over Mary and I, at Mary's suggestion, helped Mrs. Mills to wash the dishes, and then we took her to church with us.

Mr. Hartford tells us that he has not seen a nicer village church in Manitoba than St. George's, so perhaps a description of it will not be out of place. To begin with, it is very tiny—a hundred people would find it overcrowding. I am sure. To a height of four or five feet the walls are of stone, and above that they are covered with shingles stained a warm brown colour. The green roof has a low pitch, and the eaves project, the latter feature giving the building a homely, settled appearance painfully lacking in the usual Canadian church architecture. Mr. Hartford says the inside to be half a size smaller than the buildings they cover. The inside of the church is of good quality and the furnishings are of good taste. I cannot become reconciled to the clear glass windows, but there is something to be said in their favour when the evening sunlight floods all the building with light. I slept without rocking that night, and dreamed that I was in our own church at home. While Father was reading the lessons, while Father sat in the front pews and beamed approval. Arthur, meanwhile, was engaged in the laudable occupation of carving our initials—his and mine—on the chancel rail, and I was in agony lest Mr. Hartford should discover what he was doing.

Mary, whose train leaves in an hour, is hovering around, and I think from her expression that she has a few last words of advice to administer. No, I do not wish that I were going back to Winnipeg with her! (To be continued)

The use of Miller's Worm Powders insures healthy children so far as the ailments attributable to worms are concerned. A high mortality among children is traceable to worms. These say the strength of infants, so that they are unable to maintain the battle for life and succumb to weakness. This preparation offers promise of health and keeps it.

Exploring for Weather Data

Italian Explorer Will Establish Observatories 20,000 Feet Above Sea Level

Students of meteorology will learn with eager anticipation the news of the projected expedition, by the well-known Italian explorer, Dr. Filippo de Filippi, to the great upland plateau of Central Asia, the so-called "roof of the world."

Dr. Filippi intends to establish a series of meteorological observatories at a height of nearly 20,000 feet above sea level, and the expected records should be of the utmost value to science.

Even a few years ago hardly any knowledge of the atmospheric conditions which control the weather could be obtained except near the surface, and a few observatories on mountain peaks gave us all our data for the upper air.

Now frequent observations are made by means of small, unmanned balloons, which occasionally reach a height of from 15 to 20 miles; but we have very few regular series of records at heights of more than 10,000 feet.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Special Care of Baby.

That Baby should have a bed of its own all are agreed. Yet it is more reasonable for an infant to sleep with grown-ups than to use a man's medicine in an attempt to regulate the delicate organism of that same infant. Either practice is to be shunned. Neither would be tolerated by specialists in children's diseases.

Your Physician will tell you that Baby's medicine must be prepared with even greater care than Baby's food. A Baby's stomach when in good health is too often disgraced by improper food. Could you for a moment, then, think of giving to your ailing child anything but a medicine especially prepared for Infants and Children? Don't be deceived.

Make a mental note of this—It is important. Mothers, that you should remember that to function well, the digestive organs of your Baby must receive special care. No Baby is so abnormal that the desired results may be had from the use of medicines primarily prepared for grown-ups.

What is Wrong?

A question often asked is, What is wrong with the church? It might as pertinently be queried, however, What is wrong with the people? The church of today in various ways, appears to be doing its utmost to fulfil its mission, while many people exhibit either the perversity of spoiled children or the cynicism attached to hardened unbeliever—Hamilton Spectator.

A Dangerous Practice.

Many children lose their lives every year from tetanus, or lockjaw, caused by stepping on the points of nails thoughtlessly left protruding from boards which are thrown down and left where barefoot children and children with worn thin shoe soles can step on them.

It only takes a few minutes to take the nails out of boards. Better be safe than sorry.

Plan To Create New Wheat Board Is Now Approved

Ottawa.—The House has approved the report of the agricultural committee recommending creation of a wheat marketing agency to handle the 1922 crop. Under the terms of the committee's report, the marketing agency is not to be given the direct handling of flour and mill products and the act creating it is to become effective by proclamation "as soon as two or more of the provinces have conferred upon this agency such powers possessed by the wheat board of 1919 as come within provincial jurisdiction."

There was protracted discussion on the respective methods of the compulsory and the voluntary pool. Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the Opposition, complained that the wheat board was being submitted to a long and cruel process of stragglings and the House should not be asked to put in the final vote. He favored a voluntary board. The Opposition policy was subsequently expressed in an amendment submitted by Donald Sutherland of South Oxford, calling for reference of the report back to the agriculture committee with instruction to amend it so as to read:

"It is desirable in the national interests that the Government immediately create a national wheat marketing agency, similar to the Canada Wheat Board of 1919, but on a voluntary basis, fully in accordance with the powers of Parliament, for the marketing of the wheat crop of 1922, and that to this end Federal legislation be introduced immediately, such legislation to provide further that the said board may, with the approval of the governor-in-council, exercise such further powers or duties as may be competently conferred upon it by legislation of any province."

Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, was of the opinion that the proposed plan would be reasonably satisfactory to the people they were trying to serve.

The amendment was finally declared lost on division and the committee's report was declared adopted without the House dividing.

F. Kay (Liberal, Mississauga), chairman of the committee on agriculture and colonization, moved concurrence in the fifth report of this committee which was presented to the House on May 26. The report recommends that an act be passed creating a national wheat marketing agency for the marketing of the wheat crop of 1922, to become effective as soon as two or more provinces have conferred on this agency such powers as were possessed by the wheat board of 1919 as come within the provincial jurisdiction.

In moving concurrence, Mr. Kay said that the wheat board question had been raised by a memorandum from the Canadian Council of Agriculture asking for restoration of such a board. The committee had proceeded to hear witnesses including representatives of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, the elevator companies, etc. It had also received telegrams from various sources in regard to the wheat board. The question of the constitutionality of the wheat board having been raised, this question was referred to proper legal authorities.

Mr. Kay said it should be provided that any province taking advantage of concurrent legislation to establish the board should become responsible for and possessed by any profits accruing.

Plan for Restoring Former Dual Monarchy

Powers Asked to Give Austria Twenty Year Credit

Paris.—The Allied Council of Ambassadors decided to request the few remaining governments, creditors of Austria, who have not yet renounced their claims against her, to do so for a period of twenty years. The desire is thus to permit the application of the credit system which has been elaborated for the restoration of the former dual monarchy.

Charles Benoit, French Minister of the Hague, headed the delegation which France sent to The Hague. This delegation, however, only attended the preliminary meeting, June 15, the experts not being expected to arrive until later, about June 25.

The German Government notified the Reparations Commission that it would pay the regular monthly installment of 50,000,000 gold marks on the date fixed for this payment. The commission is awaiting word from Germany as to what measures she intends taking to carry out the provisions of the commission's ultimatum now that the international loan has failed to materialize. The commission, it was announced, will send another note to Germany requesting further minor improvement in the budget and arrangements for financial reforms.

China Appoints Foreign Minister

Dr. Yen Will Fill Post in New Central Government

Peking.—Dr. W. W. Yen, former foreign minister, has been re-appointed to that post in the new Central Chinese Government. Dr. Yen has also been named acting premier and is expected to be made premier in the event of Wu Ting-fang, foreign minister of the Southern Government at Canton, refusing to be President Li's premier.

General Wu Pei-fu, the outstanding military figure of China by reason of his recent defeat of Chang Tso-lin, the Manchurian leader, has been chosen minister of war in the Peking cabinet. Dr. Wang Chung-hui, a lawyer of international repute, will be minister of justice.

Radio Messages on Canadian National Trains

Vancouver.—What is said to be the first time in the history of railroading in Canada, the experiment of sending radio messages from a moving passenger train has been tried out on the Transcontinental Limited of the National Railways. Messages were received from Vancouver on board a train when it was in the vicinity of Hope, B.C., eastbound from Vancouver. The messages were received perfectly, until the train ran into an atmosphere that was disturbed by an electrical storm overhead and interruptions were frequent. Should the experiment prove successful, it is possible that all Canadian National trains operating in the west will be equipped with radio, it is stated.

Nervous Breakdown COULDN'T SLEEP NIGHTS

To those on the verge of a nervous breakdown the following symptoms present themselves: nervous headaches, a feeling of depression, fitful, disturbed, restless and unrefreshing sleep, often troubled with frightful dreams, avoidance of crowded places, dread of being alone, horror of solitude.

When the nerves become affected in this way the heart generally becomes affected too, and on the first signs of any weakness of the heart or nerves, fasting energy or physical breakdown do not wait until your case becomes hopeless, but get a remedy that will at once quieten the nerves, strengthen the heart and build up the entire system.

This you will find in

I was on the verge of a nervous breakdown when a neighbor told me to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. Semenoff Returns to Orient

Cossack General Was Recalled by Petition from Siberians

Vancouver.—Recalled to Asia by petitions which are said to contain the names of numbers of Siberians, General Gregory Semenoff, chief of the Cossacks, sailed from Vancouver for the Orient on the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Asia. General Semenoff will proceed direct to Harbin, Manchuria, and from there his actions will be directed by the counsel of his advisers.

General Semenoff, it is said, is returning somewhat burdened up in hopes and expectations on account of information which he gathered when on his visit to the United States. He was glad to be back in Canada and stated he enjoyed the rest he experienced while under the Canadian flag. His United States experience had been somewhat strenuous, but he voices no criticism of the United States Government, though speaking freely of individuals who were active in opposing him.

Political Air Cleared By Division On The Budget Proposals

Ottawa.—The division on the budget clears the political air. In the view of political observers, however, it has dispelled any idea of a general election, at any rate until after a redistribution bill is brought down next session. Nevertheless, considerable significance is attached to the fact that the Government majority of 15 was dependent on the nine Progressives who voted against their leader. Had they voted with him, the House would have divided on an even vote, and the carrying of the budget would have been dependent on the casting vote of the Speaker.

There is also considerable comment on the nature of the split in Progressive ranks. Of the nine who supported the budget, seven were from Ontario, and two from British Columbia. All Progressives from the prairie provinces voted against the budget. Does the split, it is asked, indicate a veering of the eastern Progressives towards the Liberal point of view? Liberals are inclined to think it does.

It was expected that the Government majority would be dependent to a large extent on the Progressive absences. As events turned out, there were no Progressives absent. They were present, but some of them were apparently unaware of the rule which requires every member present in the House during a division, and who is not paired, to cast his vote. On the Drayton amendment, seven Progressives and the two Labor men, did not vote, although in their seats at the time and not paired.

The Speaker's attention was called to the fact and they were required to vote. "If I must vote," said J. T. Shaw, of Calgary, "I shall vote against the amendment."

"Under compulsion," said G. G. Coote, of MacLeod, "I vote against the amendment."

There is now talk of prorogation within a couple of weeks.

Mennonites Wish to Return

Saskatchewan Man Who Went to Alabama Makes Bad Move

Ottawa.—An interesting sequel to the movement some time ago of the Mennonite settlers from Western Canada to the United States has just occurred in the form of an appeal received by the Department of Immigration and Colonization for assistance to enable some of these settlers to get back to Saskatchewan. The appeal comes in a letter from a former settler at Enfield, Sask., who writes from Millay, Alabama. After pointing out that conditions have not been such as he expected to find, this settler continues:

"We would like to hear from you if it would be possible for your Government to help us out here; I mean if it would be possible to loan us money to get back to our farms again. We cannot stay here as we are in such bad shape now that we don't know what will become of us, so I pray you to help us out. My intentions never were to leave Canada, but I was talked into doing so and I am very sorry that I did."

Making of Home Brew

Will Likely Become Illegal in Canada in Near Future

Ottawa.—"Home brew" will shortly be illegal in Canada if the House of Commons in committee on the budget resolutions passes one of the proposed amendments to the Inland Revenue Act, placed before it by Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance.

The effect of the amendment will be, according to officials of the department of inland revenue, that once the amending bill has passed the House and receives royal assent, thousands of licenses issued to individuals allowing them to brew beer for their own use will be voided. After this bill comes into effect no one except brewers, regularly licensed as such by the department of inland revenue, will be permitted to brew beer.

Until the House passes the bill and it receives royal assent it does not become law, however, so there is a short respite for those who have been making their own beverages.

Indian Federation Impracticable London.—"So long as public opinion stands where it is today, West Indian Federation in the larger sense is impracticable," is the conclusion of the report of Major E. F. L. Wood, parliamentary under-secretary of the colonies, on his recent visit to the West Indies. Major Wood points out that the primary and most serious difficulty in the way of federation is the great distances separating the colonies.

The Sauce Pan falls from Favor

"What's wrong with you?" sang out the enameled ware kettle to a brilliant, silvery sauce pan hanging on a hook behind the stove. "I haven't seen you on the stove for weeks. Anything wrong?"

"Everything's wrong," sighed the brilliant sauce pan. "Mistress says she's tired of having to scour and rub and polish me every time she uses me. I guess I'm too hard to keep clean."

"My little nephew, Sam Sauce Pan, seems to have your job now," sang the kettle.

"Yes," said the silvery sauce pan sadly. "Mistress says she prefers Sam Enameled Ware, because she can clean it in a jiffy, even after the greediest frying or boiling. I guess I'm on the shelf, all right!"

World Wheat Supply Low

Only North America Has Surplus to Supply Demand

The world wheat stocks by July 1 will be lower than for several years, according to an analysis of the situation issued by the Commerce Department.

Both Argentina and Australia, the department explains, have considerably less wheat than last year, the United States carry-over will be light, and only Canada has considerable stocks on hand. A larger demand than last year, it was declared, was indicated by the upward trend of consumption, while the prospects are for a smaller crop.

Until next February, the department said, "the international trade will be largely dependent for supplies on the surplus of North America, and on a limited quantity from India. With Russia entirely out of the export trade, North American wheat is in a relatively strong position."

Super U-Boat Designed

German Inventor Has Submitted Plans to United States

A 7,000-ton armored submarine cruiser, with an action radius of 23,000 miles, is the battleship of the future, according to its designer, Professor Oswald Flamm, who constructed the "commercial" submarine, the Deutschland. He has submitted plans of his invention to the United States, Britain and Japan, as Germany is forbidden to build new war craft for decades to come.

The projected super-submarine can make four round trips between the North Sea and the United States without touching any port. It carries two 8-inch and four 3½ inch guns, with 5,000 rounds of ammunition and eight torpedo tubes, with forty torpedoes. In explaining its plans, Professor Flamm declared that, in case of a war with the United States, Japan, with several of these submarines, could cut off the Pacific from the Atlantic fleet by destroying the entrance to the Panama Canal.

"I would rather," said, "sell my invention to the United States than to any other country, but so far Japan and Britain have been pressing me hard to turn over the complete plans, while the United States has shown only mild interest."

Lightning Harmless to Airplane

Air Pilot Escapes Injury When He Meets Current at 100 Miles an Hour

Captain R. D. Herne, a cross-channel air pilot, has had the extraordinary experience of striking the path of a flash of lightning while in flight at a speed of 100 miles an hour.

Captain Herne recently made a record double trip between London and Paris in a single flying day.

While passing along the airway to Paris he observed heavy thunderclouds above the channel. He was stirring these when he suddenly saw two or three vivid flashes of lightning near the machine. The aeroplane seemed to shudder and hesitate, then, recovering itself rapidly, continued smoothly in flight.

Captain Herne called up the nearest land station by wireless telephone and asked whether they thought the trailing wire of his apparatus might be connected with this phenomenon. They advised him to wind it in temporarily, which he promptly did.

It has often been a matter of speculation what would happen should an aeroplane in flight come in the path of a flash of lightning. Some experts declared—said Captain Herne's adventure offers the first confirmation of their argument—that the lightning would flow around the machine and down its wireless aerial and continue earthward without damaging the craft.

Way to Reduce Armaments
The way to reduce armaments in Europe is to reduce the suspicious and fears that cause armies to be maintained. But that cannot be done until the light of common sense breaks in Russia; until the numerous boundary questions that blur the map of Europe are out of the way; until Greece, Italy, France and Great Britain are satisfied with the state of affairs in the Near East, and until France is convinced that Germany will carry out all of the terms of the treaty of Versailles.—Detroit Free Press.

A questionnaire is being sent out by the World's Y.W.C.A. to twenty-six countries, asking an answer to the question: "What do women want, and why do they want it?" A frank answer to the first part would probably be, "Don't know," and to the second, "Just because."—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

Hall's Catarrh Medicine

Those who are in a "run down" condition will notice that Catarrh bothers them much more than when they are in good health. This fact proves that Catarrh is a local disease. It is greatly influenced by constitutional conditions. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a tonic and acts through the blood upon the mucous surface of the body, thus reducing the inflammation and assisting Nature in restoring normal conditions.
